US PRESIDENT BIDEN & RUSSIAN PRESIDENT PUTIN WILL MEET ON JUNE 16 IN GENEVA

TO RESTORE STABILITY IN THE RELATIONSHIP

Paris, Washington DC, 09.06.2021, 03:16 Time

USPA NEWS - US Presidents Joe Biden and Russian Presidents Vladimir Putin will meet on June 16 in Geneva, Switzerland, the White House and the Kremlin announced on Tuesday.

This meeting, had been initially proposed by the American President Joe Biden has his counterpart Vladimir Putin, "in a third country" in April, during their exchange over the tensions of Donbass, in Ukraine. The Russian President therefore accepted this meeting, now confirmed in Geneva in Switzerland, like their predecessors, President Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev who met in November 1985, in Geneva. This will be the first top-level US-Russia meeting in Geneva since the Reagan-Gorbachev summit in November 1985 and is being hailed as a diplomatic success for Switzerland. The, bilateral summit is well chosen to be held in Geneva a « third country » which will play a « neutral » role as the host country. Besides, Switzerland is well-liked by the Kremlin, especially since it has not joined Western sanctions against Russia. And likewise, Switzerland this time, is seen convenient, from the US diplomatic point of view.
