GABRIEL ATTAL HAS BEEN SERIAL MINISTER AT 34 BEFORE HEAD OF THE GOVERNMENT

Gabriel Attal, who happened to be the former

Minister of Education (Since July 2023-January2024),

Minister of Treasury (May-2022- July 2023, under Elisabeth Borne Government),

Spokesperson of the government, (2020- to 2022, under Jean Castex Government),

Junior Minister of Education & Youth (under the aegis of Minister Jean Michel Blanquer, 2018- 2020)

"Liberty-Equality-Fraternity" will be my compass » Gabriel Attal said, as he was heading his speech, in doorstep of Matignon Palace, rue de Varenne (Premiere Ministry)

He concluded "I want to have a thought again for the President of the Republic to reiterate to him all my gratitude and loyalty as well as my gratitude to parliament and for always being one of them and to the oppositions, I want to tell them that we will not know always agree on everything but it will be the voice of all our citizens who express themselves and the territorial elected officials as well"

GABRIEL ATTAL HAS A ONE OF A KIND A SPEEDY POLITICAL CAREER

Gabriel Attal was elected to the French National Assembly on 18 June 2017, representing the Hauts de seine 's 10th Constituency, becoming new Member of Parliament, for the Socialist Party. In December 2017, Attal was appointed rapporteur on a bill on access to higher education.

Gabriel Attal was appointed Junior Minister, under the aegis of the Minister of Education & Youth, Jean Michel Blanquer, in October 2018. He was in charge of the youth issues, and evolved in many aspects in particular by setting up universal national service.

Gabriel Attal During COVID-19 crisis period (2020-2022) , Gabriel Attal took over Sibeth Ndiaye the spokesperson position, dealing between the Parliament and government of Jean Castex who he thanked warmly during the take over « I would like to thank Jean Castex, from whom I learned so much in Matignon, and he also taught me the friendship in politics ». Two year later of his well done job, the President Macron very satisfied of his achievements, and done job, appointed him Minister of treasury under Elisabeth Borne's Prime Ministry, in May 2022.

He, became few months later, during the reshuffle of July 2023, the Minister (Senior position) of Education and Youth. Five months later, and having marking this sort but intense period, by banning abayas (Muslim Long shirts, tuniques) at schools for girls under the "principle of secularism", extending a ban on religious symbols in French public schools that already included Christian crosses,

Jewish Kippahs and Islamic veils, and intervention amid violence and harassment in schools, enabling the pupils to lash out and free the speech over their breakthroughs and punishment for the harassers and protect the victims.

CEREMONY OF TAKE OVER PRIME MINISTER, 9 JANUARY 2024, MATIGNON

On 9 January 2024, Gabriel Attal is appointed the youngest Prime Minister of the 5th French Republic, following the steps of his mentor, Emmanuel Macron, youngest President of the Republic.

The take over ceremony was very sober and shortened by the frizzing temperature (-7 Degrees), held in the front yard of Matignon Palace. Elisabeth Borne (61 years old) , started by thanking Gabriel Attal (34), as the age gap, was uncanny, and wishing him success. She then explained how she worked relentlessly during her twenty years term, at the office, and said she believed in " Dialogue and co-construction " to " serve the general interest of the French People "

"I am full of humility because I am aware of what remains to be accomplished, says Elisabeth Borne" "I worked tirelessly and without any clashes to serve the French people, she added...

She concluded "I will join the National Assembly with my peers (chamber of the representatives) as an elected MP " (of Calvados, Normandy) where she belongs.."

Elisabeth Borne still asked for a small "favor" or "advice" for continuity from her successor, that of pursuing equal opportunities, a subject that she had defended during her general policy speech of July 6, 2022 , and insisting on addressing young women.

"I am full of humility because I am aware of what remains to be accomplished, says Elisabeth Borne"

I sent a message to all the little girls telling them to follow their dreams and I told the women to hold on because there is still a long way to go. That success is possible whatever its origin, even social or other, and address, everyone has their chance to succeed, to continue" She joins the fight, as a feminist leader, adding "I will always continue the fight, thank you "

The now former Prime Minister Elisabeth Borne, was applauded at length by the majority of her staff and a few rare guests, lined up in the courtyard of Matignon, according to a strict protocol behind ribbon corridors, and in the freezing winter cold. ..

She added, addressing the women to continue, a bit following in her own footsteps, she who had achieved the feat of "lasting" 20 months as a female PM when the first Female Prime Minister Edith Cresson (1991)

Gabriel Attal, a little intimidated and seemed stunned by the enormous responsibility which separates him a few minutes from the post of new Prime Minister, addresses his predecessor

Elisabeth Borne "you were a Prime Minister for 20 months, a woman of action. We all know what we owe you

I am taking up my duties and it is first of all to the President of the Republic that I address my most sincere thanks."

LIBERTY EQUALITY FRATERNITY WIL BE MY COMPASS, GABRIEL ATTAL, STATED

Gabriel Attal, aware of the "strong symbol" of his appointment by President Emmanuel Macron, acknowledges himself "The youngest President of the Republic in history has appointed the youngest Prime Minister in history, that of the symbol of "the audacity of cider to young people for whom we must fight tirelessly" He adds that "in recent months I have worked tirelessly to restore this hope to children and their parents" by being Minister of National Education.

I reaffirm that the future Minister of National Education I will give him as Prime Minister, all possible actions and from this point of view in continuity and by taking decisions, as was the case on abaya and on secularism.

Like I am also committed to equal opportunities and I am committed to the fight against harassment at school.

He adds very symbolically that "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity, our school motto, is that of the French Republic and will always be true.

"FRANCE WILL NEVER RHYME WITH DECLINE OF FRIENDS WITH ENTHOUSIASM, BOLDNESS AND MOVEMENT" DECLARED GABRIEL ATTAL

Gabriel Attal explains that France is known and recognized for its social system serving the French, and affirms that "France will never rhyme with decline, because it rhymes with enthusiasm, audacity and movement" in the face of detractors who engage in French-bashing.

Gabriel Attal, who usually displays a certain self-confidence, a little intimidated and seemed stunned by the enormous responsibility, will soon fall to him. Indeed, his rapid appointment (in one night) is enough to surprise many political opponents, and also considering his young age and coming from the Socialist Party.

What separates him, a few minutes from the post of new Prime Minister, addressing his predecessor, is this brief and intense moment at the same time, where Gabriel Attal will realize that he will be the head of government of which he had been four years ago. years the spokesperson...

Elisabeth Borne "you were a Prime Minister for 20 months, a woman of action. We all know what we owe you I take up my duties and it is first of all to the President of the Republic that I address my most sincere thanks." He would later realize that in France, meritocracy was able to apply to his personal case of meteoric rise from simple MP Issy Les Moulineaux to head of government at 34 years old, thanks to a President of the Republic who breaks the codes and does not swear only by talent and merit regardless of social or ethnic origin, like his initiative to abolish the Ena (School of High Public Servants) known to be elitist..../
